

Causes and effects

Connect the causes and the effects with a line. One cause can lead to many effects, and one effect can be caused by different things.

Some natural causes of disaster

Earthquakes

Hurricanes

Floods

Tornados

Drought

Short-term effects

People are killed

Property damaged

People are maimed

Agricultural land is destroyed

Animals killed

Some human causes of disaster

War

Inadequate health care

Unfair trade rules

Lack of education

Lack of housing

Environmental damage

Long-term effects

Disease

Malnutrition

Homelessness

Loss of livelihood

(e.g. people lose their jobs or their farms, and so on)

Land erosion

What were the effects of the tsunami?

Are similar effects caused by other disasters?

Which of the causes do we hear more about in the media? Why? Why don't we hear more about causes that have similar effects to those of the tsunami

... 300 million children go to bed hungry every night - only 8% of these are victims of a famine or emergency situation. ...