

Living in a multi-faith London

What kind of city do you want to live in?

Join other young Londoners from different faiths and backgrounds at the British Museum

Sunday 2nd October, 10-5:30pm.
The British Museum, Great Russell Street, London WC1B 3DG
Free entry and lunch provided.

THE BRITISH MUSEUM

 Save the Children

The event

The British Museum and the Diversity and Dialogue project invite you to think about living in a multi-faith society.

Religion here.....

The event is a chance to meet young Londoners from different faiths and backgrounds.

You'll be asked to share your thoughts on your own beliefs and identity and on the kind of society you want to live in,

How do we make sure that everyone tries to understand and respect one another?

there.....

The Museum houses treasures from many different religions, times and places. Unlock the secrets of the past and see how religions co-existed in other times.

You'll take a trail around the Museum, created by other young people over the summer. They have selected ancient artefacts which highlight aspects of our own society.

and everywhere.....

Religion often gets a bad press. Here we take a look at what different faith-based organisations are doing to make the world a better place.

Workshops include:

South Asian dance, learning how to resolve conflicts peacefully, writing for the media and a frank debate on the aftermath of the terrorist attacks.

Registration

To register contact Becky Hatch at r.hatch@savethechildren.org.uk or on 020 7012 6438 and include the following information about yourself:

Name

Age

Religion (if you have one)

Email address (or home address)

Mobile number (or home phone)

Is there anything else you'd like to know? We'll get back to you when we confirm your place.

The conference is being organised by Save the Children and the British Museum, in partnership with:

