Person specification

Are you right for us?

Activists who support Oxfam are passionate about overcoming poverty and suffering, and put their passion into action – whether by putting pressure on decision makers, by raising awareness locally, or by asking others to take action.

In our selection process we will be looking for people with:

- Commitment to overcoming poverty and suffering
- Enthusiasm, energy and creativity
- Willingness to learn
- Good communication skills
- A team player with the ability to work alone
- Confidence to take on unfamiliar tasks and make contacts
- Commitment to at least 6 months of campaigning with Oxfam in your own community or university
- Availability for the residential training course in Birmingham, 18 – 21 September inclusive

You will need to reside in the UK during the six-months of your campaigning programme. This is very important as we will be asking you to build contacts and develop activists locally.

Are we right for you?

Through the residential training course and six-month programme, we aim to provide you with:

- The skills, knowledge and confidence to be an active campaigner in your community or campus
- Advice on drawing up your own individual campaign plans
- Input and support from experienced campaigners
- Experience of campaigning with the development sector
- Ongoing support and advice throughout the 6 months
- A challenging and fun experience which will provide you with skills for the future
- The chance to put your beliefs into practice and make a real contribution to overcoming poverty and suffering

Oxfam's Mission Statement

Oxfam works with others to overcome poverty and suffering.

Who are we?

We are an independent organisation, registered as a charity, affiliated to Oxfam International, with partners, volunteers, supporters and staff of many nationalities – part of a global movement to build a just and safer world. We work at all levels from global to local, including international governments, global institutions as well as with local communities and individuals, to ensure that everyone's rights are fulfilled and protected.

We believe that everyone has the right to life and security, to a sustainable livelihood, to basic social services, to be heard, and to equity.

What do we do?

We are a catalyst for overcoming poverty. To achieve the greatest impact, we work on three inter-linking fronts:

- Saving lives by responding swiftly to provide aid, support and protection during emergencies.
- Developing programmes and solutions that empower people to work their way out of poverty.
- Campaigning to achieve lasting change.

Our values

Our values are founded on our beliefs and centred around three inter-related themes:

Empowerment: Everyone who is involved with Oxfam – whether by contributing to our work, or those who are living in poverty – feels empowered

Inclusiveness: We are inclusive – open to everyone, regardless of ethnic background or religion

Accountability: Our purpose-driven/results-focused approach which holds ourselves – and others – accountable.

What is the Change Programme?

Being involved with Oxfam's Change program represents the beginning of your long-term commitment to campaigning. The 4-day residential training course in Birmingham is designed to equip you with the knowledge and skills to take effective campaign actions and to develop a strong relationship with Oxfam that will help support you over the following six months.

At the end of the course, each Change participant will design their own action plan for their return to their community or campus. This plan will be your commitment to raise awareness of Oxfam's campaigns, mobilise local people, and take effective action to achieve results on Oxfam's campaigning priorities.

Responsibilities

As a participant in the Change programme, you will have the flexibility to develop your own ideas and ways of working, although all participants are required to undertake the following kinds of activity:

- Visit your local Member of Parliament or other political representative on an Oxfam campaign issue
- Work with others locally to organise campaign activities and events
- Work with the local media to raise awareness of Oxfam's campaigns

Specific targets will be set at the residential training.

- Do not exceed 100 words for any of the answers in the questions.
