CLIMATE CHANGE

Climate change is the biggest challenge our world and its people face. Through Oxfam's work we are seeing its devastating effects already – and it's hitting the world's poorest people first and worst. This December, the UN Climate Change Conference takes place in Copenhagen where critical decisions will be made on the future of our planet.

Add your name to make sure that Gordon Brown's government fights for a new global climate deal that commits to keeping the rise in temperature below the 2-degree danger limit, and ensuring that people living in poverty do not pay the biggest price for our changing climate.
