

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The word ‘editor’ hardly does justice to Mark Fried’s enormous contribution to this book. He has used his unique combination of editorial skills and deep knowledge of development to shape the text, spot gaps, and propose improvements – all this with unfailing patience and good humour. Seemingly infinite reserves of stamina and good humour have also allowed Anna Coryndon to manage the project from its conception, through Byzantine consultations, to final product, her extraordinary eye for detail spotting whenever things were starting to unravel. It has been a delight to work with them both.

I would like to thank Oxfam for ensuring that I had the time and resources to get this job done. In particular Phil Bloomer, and before him Justin Forsyth, offered unswerving support and brilliant advice throughout. Others who played a crucial role include John Ambler, Jan Bouke Wijbrandi, Becky Buell, Sam Bickersteth, Marjolein Brouwer, James Ensor, Gonzalo Fanjul, Lot Felizco, Jeremy Hobbs, Richard King, Adam Leach, Luk Tak Chuen, and Chris Roche.

The following staff from across Oxfam International have offered valuable insights, written background papers, and led staff consultation on early drafts:

Sheila Aikman; Michel Anglade; Sally Baden; Jogien Bakker; Michael Bailey; Nathalie Beghin; Sarah Best, Lea Borkenhagen; David Bright; Marie Cacace; Eduardo Caceres; Ed Cairns; Constantino Casasbuenas; Gina Castillo; Craig Castro; Peter Chaudhry; Juan Cheaz; Jane Cocking; Mohamed Coulibaly; Ashvin Dayal; Sumi Dhanarajan; Wayne Diamond; Alan Doran; Bethan Emmett; Moira Faul; Nina Fenton; Judith Flick; Penny Fowler; Arry Fraser; Ian Gary; Matar Gaye; Raquel Gomes; Richard Grahn; Ruben Guevara; Rachel Hastie; Nina Henderson-Andrade; Antonio Hill; Catherine Hine; Lisa Horner; Maxime Houinato; Didier Jacobs; Steve Jennings; Chris Jochnick; Emily Jones; Anna Macdonald;
