

sherry embarrassing

Well done to everyone who spotted our sherry easy competition and thanks for entering the results are now in

but to be frank,
they're a little disappointing!

The correct answers are as follows:

Christmas hat?
Cracker?
What were you thinking?

This was clearly a man wearing a nasty mid-eighties, polyester winter jumper.
And to think, some of you guessed snowflake?!

It gets worse.
Goodness knows why some of you plumped for 'holly' for this one.

Santa?
OK, you could argue that he does add a little something to Christmas. But not as much as Alan's Uncle Bob, he visit's every year without fail.

Even though our clue virtually gave this one away, you all failed to spot that this was in fact an obvious warning sign about the dangers of being attacked by dead Christmas trees.

Candy cane??
Eh?

Amazingly, the sad truth is that NO ONE got any answers right.

It's true, NO ONE!!

In light of this rather poor effort on your part we've been left with no choice other than to do something else with the money we had allocated for prizes.

So we've bought some animals

2 donkeys, 2 alpacas and 2 goats (plus care packs) for people who need them.

Go to www.oxfamunwrapped.com for more details.

There is a silver lining (well wrapper) so you'll still receive a consolation prize from us in the post before Christmas.

Thanks so much for taking part. But really guys, you've got to think outside the box next time.

