

Asili, Ake, Mumina from Uye women's group in Kenya, with their pawpaw harvest from a food production project supported by Oxfam and partner organisation, NORAD.

Photo: Misheck Kamau/Oxfam

Together
FOR A FAIRER WORLD

OXFAM

Photo: Zara Canfield/Oxfam

Who we are

You probably know us from your local shop on your high street, where you might have dropped off a donation after a declutter, or a second-hand steal has caught your eye.

But Oxfam is more than that. We are a partner to communities around the world tackling poverty and inequality, recognising that it can occur anywhere, to anyone. We confront the causes and consequences of poverty, and we believe that when people come together, change happens.

Thank you for taking the time to learn more.
By joining in solidarity, you can make genuine,
lasting change.

what we do

TACKLING CLIMATE CHANGE

We work alongside activists to call for climate justice and provide support in developing sustainable ways for people to adapt to their changing environment.

RESPONDING IN AN EMERGENCY

We campaign against unjust policies that fuel conflict and disasters and prepare people to cope when a crisis strikes, making sure communities can access essentials when they need them.

VOICES FOR EQUALITY

We challenge the systems that ignore and exclude women and other marginalised groups, and provide support such as grants for people to start up their own cooperatives.

Oxfam works with partners and communities around the world to tackle poverty and inequality.

www.oxfam.org.uk/oxfam-in-action

TACKLING CLIMATE CHANGE:

Ali's Story

Ali is a farmer and father living in the Sanaag region of Somaliland. After losing much of his livestock to drought, Ali moved into agricultural farming to try and adapt to the effects of the climate crisis. Working alongside Oxfam partner, the Somali Resilience Program, his farm and its new solar-powered well are helping to build unity and support the local community.

"Working together,
we fixed our broken
well and installed
solar power...
It is a win for the community."

ALI, SOMALILAND

Photo: Pablo Tosco/Oxfam

"For seven months,
there was no water...
When we received the generator, we had water for the first time in months. We finally felt safe again."

AWAD, LEBANON

RESPONDING IN AN EMERGENCY:

Awad's Story

Awad lives in the village of Deir Mimas in southern Lebanon. After the town's only generator was destroyed in airstrikes, there was no access to a reliable water supply and daily tasks like washing hands, cooking and bathing became a challenge. Oxfam worked with partners to repair the destroyed generator, which restored water and electricity to the village.

VOICES FOR EQUALITY:

Magdalene's story

Magdalene lives in Sierra Leone and founded the Female Pastors Network (FEMINET), a women-led farming cooperative which transformed food production in her local community. With support and training from Oxfam's local partners, Magdalene found ways to tackle malnutrition in her community by turning cassava into fortified flour. With a grant, FEMINET were also able to buy land, providing business sustainability and empowering local women.

"People are admiring us so much in our community. Our work is important because it has started enlightening people on the ground."

MAGDALENE (pictured, far left), SIERRA LEONE

Photo: Nana Kofi Acquah/Oxfam

Get involved

Set change in motion for a fairer world.

Volunteer

In our shops or at a festival, give your time and skills to make a difference in your community.

Fundraise

Sign up to an event or set up your own. Whether it's a bake sale, a running challenge or putting on a gig – there are so many great opportunities.

Campaign

Use your voice to challenge unjust systems and fight for a more equal world.

Shop

Visit your local Oxfam shop on the high street or shop online. If you're at a festival, visit one of our pop-up shops.

Pramila is an elected member of a local ward council in Haldyaam - a small village in western Nepal. She shares "I want to be elected to more leadership roles so I can better serve the people."

Photo: Rashik Maharjan/Oxfam

IT'LL TAKE ALL OF US

When people come together, change comes about.

Scan to get involved today:
www.oxfam.org.uk/get-involved

